ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A molding material includes a layer of a reinforcement material and a layer of a resin material, the resin material layer including a venting structure to allow gases to pass out of the molding material via the reinforcement layer during processing. The venting structure includes venting passages or channels for venting the molding material.

5